Choice of Models

The Wilderness Shop has a great choice of travel packs and accessories from quality manufacturers. Each travel pack has a different emphasis on capacity, features, pricing and harness design. We have carefully selected from among the best brands to suit all users as only an independent store can. "Own brand" stores may not be able to offer truly independent advice, or from such a range as ours, as to the best pack for your needs.

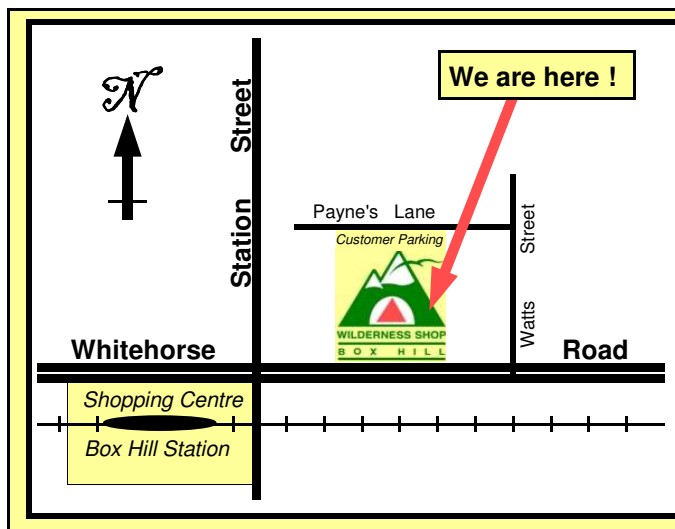

Choosing a Pack

There are a number of decisions and compromises that may have to be made. Considerations are interrelated and may be conflicting. Price, of course, needs to be considered. Ultimately this is a representation of capacity, features and the harness system. As capacity and the features (number of pockets, compartments etc) increase, the weight of the pack will also increase. The harness design is less obvious. Apart from a greater range of adjustability, more technical harnesses will have waist and shoulder straps containing 2 or 3 different materials increasing support and comfort. They may be available in different sizes for different back lengths, and in separate mens and womens fittings.

Selecting & Fitting a Harness

Our experienced staff have a wide background in outdoor and travel situations, with a genuine interest in ensuring that you leave The Wilderness Shop with the best harness for yourself. Following their advice is the best way to get a great fit, as different harness designs suit different people. Here is advice from Mont:

- Loosen all of the straps, put the pack on, then do up and tighten the hipbelt snugly. The middle of the hipbelt should fit snugly around the hips.
- Tighten the shoulder straps, then the stabiliser straps between the tops of the shoulders and the top of the pack frame, the top of the pack being between 0-5cm higher. If the pack does not fit quite right, you may need to adjust the back length by adjusting the position of the shoulder yoke on the harnesses frame stays, or by changing harness size. The curvature of the frame stays may also need adjusting.
- With light to moderate loads you may not need to use the sternum strap, but for heavy loads, do up the sternum strap for extra stability.
- Finally tighten the stabiliser straps between the hipbelt and the base of the pack.
